

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHIES

Download Biographies
 Senior Attorney, American Medical Association	Wes Cleveland, JD is an attorney in the AMA’s Advocacy Resource Center. Prior to joining the served as an Assistant Attorney General in the Office of the Texas Attorney General, an attorney in the American Medical Association’s Office of General Counsel, and in private practice in Austin, Texas, where he represented physicians, hospitals, and individual and institutional health care providers. Mr. Cleveland advocates on a wide variety of concerns, including but not limited to issues related to fraud and abuse, a fiduciary duty, Employee Retirement Income and Security Act, physician employment, and state and federal malpractice requirements.
 Senior Washington Counsel, American Medical Association	Debra Cohn, JD is a Senior Washington Counsel in the Division of Legislative Counsel in the AMA office, where she provides legal analysis and counsel on legislative and regulatory proposals to the AMA and other staff, senior management, Board members, the Council on Legislation, and the Federal Register. Ms. Cohn has over 35 years of health law and policy experience and has been with the AMA for over 20 years. During this time, she has been the lead counsel in Advocacy with responsibility for federal health care policy including the Affordable Care Act’s provisions relating to access to care and health insurance market reforms, and exchanges, as well as efforts to repeal the ACA and to improve the health care portfolio also includes Medicaid, CHIP, and public health from A-Z, including the opioid epidemic and women’s health. She has written numerous reports for the Council on Legislation and the Board of Directors on priorities and resolutions referred by the House of Delegates. Prior to joining the AMA, Ms. Cohn worked for medical specialty organizations; a large public university system with five academic medical centers, two law schools, and health professional schools; a large health insurance trade association; a major insurance center in New York City; the New York State Legislature; and practiced law for four years. She received her law degree from Georgetown University and her undergraduate degree in history (with honors) from Albany State University in Albany, New York.
 Director, Division of Legislative Counsel, American Medical Association	George Cox, JD is the American Medical Association’s (AMA) Director, Division of Legislative Counsel, providing high-value legislative and regulatory analysis and counsel to AMA Advocacy staff, Board members, and the Council on Legislation, and specialty and state medical societies. He has a broad substantive knowledge of health care laws and is recognized in particular for his expertise in and contribution to medical liability reform and safety issues. George serves on the Board of the American Tort Reform Association and represents the AMA on the Executive Committee of the Health Coalition on Liability and Access (HCLA). Prior to joining the AMA, George worked on Capitol Hill serving as counsel to two Members of Congress. George received his Bachelor’s degree in economics from Ithaca College and law degree from the University of Miami School of Law.

Senior Attorney, American Medical Association

Ashley Delosh, JD is an attorney for the American Medical Association's Division of Legislative she provides legislative and regulatory analysis and counsel on a broad array of healthcare issues: matters of digital health and augmented intelligence, telemedicine, and recently the emerging digital tools to support solutions aimed at cost and price transparency. Ashley earned her B.A. University in international politics and a J.D. with a concentration in Health Law & Science, from University School of Law.

Senior Attorney, American Medical Association (ARC)

Kim Horvath, JD is a senior attorney in the Advocacy Resource Center at the American Medical Association; she leads multifaceted advocacy campaigns across the 50 states on top level healthcare issues of practice, telehealth, physician-led team based care, physician licensure, workforce, and trust works in strong collaboration with the 50 state medical associations and national medical societies across the country to help shape and inform state laws, regulations, and policies in support of physicians. Kim has advocated before national policy making organizations, state legislature and regulators.

Senior Legislative Counsel, American Medical Association

Bryan Hull, JD, MPH, serves as senior legislative counsel for the American Medical Association and advocates for physicians on Medicare payment issues. He is experienced in leading national efforts to educate providers on appropriate health care delivery practices and emerging changes to health reimbursement and coding systems. Bryan received his Bachelor's degree (BS) from Stony Brook University where he majored in Health Science, his Master of Public Health degree (MPH) from Drexel University in health care management and policy and his Juris Doctor (JD) from the University of Maryland where he concentrated in health law.

Shareholder, Bernstein Shur, Sawyer & Nelson, PA

Ken Lehman, JD is a shareholder in Bernstein Shur's Litigation Group and he co-chairs the firm's Health Care Group. Ken has practiced health care law for more than 35 years. He is a former Maine Assistant Attorney General where he had responsibility for cases before Maine's professional licensure boards that license PAs, nurses and nurse practitioners, dentists, psychologists, social workers, professional counselors, chiropractors, and other health care providers. He has been recognized by Best Lawyers in America for his work as a health care attorney, and Best Lawyers has also listed him for many years for his work as an administrative and regulatory attorney in Maine.

Ken concentrates his law practice on advising and defending health care providers regarding issues that arise in health care practices, including: quality of care; ethics and professional conduct; complaints and grievances; challenging patient care issues; confidentiality and HIPAA compliance; prescribing controlled substances; medication assisted opioid treatment; mandated reporting; regulatory compliance; and many other day-to-day practice and licensure issues. He represents and provides defense for individual health care providers, for FQHCs and other clinics, for long-term care facilities, substance treatment, social service and other agencies, and for institutions. Ken also represents health care professionals and organizations in licensure cases and regulatory matters before State and Federal agencies.

Shareholder, Nason Yeager Gerson
Harris & Fumero, PA

Richard H. Levenstein, JD is a shareholder at Nason Yeager. He practices in the area of complex litigation, physician and medical staff representation. Mr. Levenstein represents clients with business including actions arising from contracts or torts; his practice also has a heavy concentration in individual physicians, professional medical practices and the physician leadership of organizations around the State. He has successfully challenged the policies of major hospitals and has won victories that have shaped the law to protect physicians and medical staffs. Mr. Levenstein is a Business Litigation Lawyer and a Florida Supreme Court Certified Circuit Civil Mediator. He represents state and federal court, and in administrative proceedings. Originally from the Bronx, New York, he earned his bachelor's degree in 1973 from Tulane University in New Orleans and earned his Juris Doctor from Tulane University Law School. He has practiced in the State of Florida since 1977 and has been a sole practitioner and as a partner in several major firms. He practiced in Boca Raton for 18 years before relocating to Martin County. In addition to his legal work, Mr. Levenstein is the founding President of the Major B. Harding American Inns of Court and former President of the Martin County Bar Association on several Florida Bar Committees and serves on the Board of many national organizations including the American Inns of Court Foundation, The Lawyers Committee of the National Center for State and Local American Judicature Society. He is deeply committed to educating the public about the importance of an impartial judiciary, and trains lawyers and judges around the Country how to do so, through the American Inns of Court initiative. Mr. Levenstein is also a Supreme Court Certified Circuit Civil Mediator, serves as a Professor of Healthcare Law at Tulane University Law School and a lecturer at Tulane University.

Senior Washington
Counsel, American Medical Association

Lisa Myers, JD, CIPP/US is Senior Washington Counsel in the American Medical Association's Legislative Counsel. She provides legal advice and regulatory analysis on data privacy, with a focus on HIPAA, GDPR, and consumer privacy protections. Focused on patient privacy in health care, she has worked on federal advocacy aligned with the AMA's policy objectives. Prior to joining the AMA, Lisa worked for Civil Rights in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, contributing to several Proposed and Final Rules including those on modifying HIPAA to increase care coordination, improve reproductive health information privacy, and aligning the confidentiality protections for Substance Use Disorder (SUD) with those of HIPAA. Lisa previously served as Associate General Counsel and Chief Firewall Officer for the Nurses Association, and AGC and Corporate Secretary for subsidiaries for the largest health insurer in the Mid-Atlantic region. She is CIPP/US certified and received her undergraduate English degree from the University of Virginia and law degree from Tulane University in New Orleans, LA.

Senior Strategic Health IT Policy
Consultant, American Medical Association

Matt Reid, MS (Bio coming soon)

Of Counsel, Whatley Kallas, LLP

Ms. Deborah Winegard, JD focuses her practice on healthcare litigation, primarily representing hospitals, physical therapy practices, ambulatory surgery centers, and other healthcare providers in reimbursement disputes with third party payers and in antitrust and ERISA litigation against hospitals. Ms. Winegard also represents medical societies and organizations advocating for physician interests, and government and patients seeking coverage for wilderness therapy and other mental health treatments under the Parity Act. Ms. Winegard speaks widely on healthcare and reimbursement issues. She has given presentations at the American Medical Association, the Ambulatory Surgery Center Association, the American Association of Ambulatory Surgery Centers, the Medical Group Managers Association, and several state and specialty medical associations. Ms. Winegard has published articles in several publications, including Connecticut Medicine, published by the Connecticut State Medical Society, and Texas Medicine, published by the Texas Medical Association. A webinar on RAC and other medical audits Ms. Winegard conducted for the Physician Institute is available on that organization's website. Ms. Winegard's prior experience includes General Counsel and Director of Third-Party Payer Advocacy for the Medical Association of Georgia, General Counsel and Senior Vice President for the California Medical Association, as Law & Government Counsel for AT&T, and as an Associate on King & Spalding's Healthcare Team. Ms. Winegard graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. in Politics from Wake Forest University in 1979, where she was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honor society. She earned her J.D. with honors from George Washington University. She is admitted to practice in Georgia, as well as in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia and the United States District Court for the District of Colorado.